Holistic Caring · Gospel Proclaiming · Life Transforming

Who We Are

CCM Canada is a Christian mission organization committed to sharing Christ's love with Chinese people and people from diverse backgrounds in Canada and around the world.

Founded in Vancouver in 1979, CCM Canada traces its roots to Chinese Christian Mission (CCM), established by Rev. Thomas Wang in 1961. Guided by the missionary vision he received from God, we serve through five key mission ministries: Literature Mission, Overseas Mission, Small Town Mission, Online Mission, and Urban Mission. Each responds to different needs in its own way, yet all share a common calling to proclaim the Gospel and share Christ's love and hope.

Through our Urban Mission, CCM Centres have been established in five Canadian cities—Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Toronto, and Montreal—where they serve and connect with local communities.

Small Town Mission

Sending workers to small towns to share Christ's love and plant faith communities.

Overseas Mission

Training and sending missionaries to participate in God's global mission.

Literature Mission

Nourishing lives and spreading the Gospel through print and digital channels.

Online Mission

Using digital platforms to equip church leaders and believers across geographic boundaries.

Urban Mission

Bring the Church to People, Bring People Back to the Church, through journeying alongside people in the cities.

Message from the Chairman

Dr. Ian Ma

Chairman, Board of Directors, CCM Canada

This year, the theme of CCM Canada continues with "United to Reach All Nations."

We thank God for the gift of salvation we have received through Jesus. Yet many people in the world still do not have the opportunity to hear the Gospel. Having received this precious gift ourselves, we would like to share it with all nations, responding to Jesus' Great Commission: "Therefore go and make disciples of all nations" (Matthew 28:19).

On behalf of CCM Canada, thank you for faithfully supporting us over the years through your prayers, giving, and partnership. May God richly bless each one of you.

"We thank God for His guidance and blessings throughout these 47 years. May He continue to lead and bless CCM Canada and its ministries in the years to come. To God be all the glory! Amen."

Message from the Chairman of CCM Canada Charitable Foundation

Mr. Jolland Leung

Chairman, CCM Canada Charitable Foundation

By God's grace, CCM Canada Charitable Foundation (CCMCCF) continues to walk alongside CCM Canada, supporting its ministries and sharing in its mission.

This year, we are especially grateful for several new funds established by brothers and sisters who felt called to support CCM's work. Three of these funds are dedicated to counselling and mental health ministries, responding to the growing needs of individuals and families in our communities. These gifts are more than financial support—they are expressions of Christ's love and care for individuals and families in need.

We also give thanks for the launch of the Rev. Thomas Wang Memorial Fund, which supports CCM Canada's urban and intercultural ministries. Through the Foundation, we continue to provide resources where they are most needed, helping ministries take root, grow, and serve the communities God has entrusted to us.

To everyone who supports CCM Canada and CCMCCF through prayer, giving, and partnership, thank you. May we continue to walk together under the Lord's guidance, bringing the love of Christ to more people in need.

To God be all the glory.

Because We Have Walked This Road

A Calgary art project once invited newcomers to tell their stories through sound—the sounds of traffic and restaurants, alongside voices recalling what it was like to start over in Canada. Jiajia Li, from Beijing, spoke of the loneliness of building a new life far from family.[1] Sara Eftekhar came from Iran as a teenager. Her parents had been engineers, but in Canada they could find work only at minimum wage, while Sara struggled at school because she did not speak English.

From Leaving Home to Walking Together

Stories like these are not uncommon. According to the 2021 Census, Canada is home to approximately 8.36 million immigrants—23% of the population, or nearly one in four Canadians.[3] By 2041, immigrants and their Canadian-born children could make up about half of Canada's population.[4] Research also suggests that loneliness remains significantly higher among immigrants, regardless of whether they have lived in Canada for less than ten years or more than a decade.[5] Within the CCM Canada family, many of our staff, volunteers, and ministry partners know the struggle of putting down roots far from home. We may never fully understand every culture or experience, but we know what it is like to leave home and find our footing again. Because we have walked this road ourselves, we hope these experiences will deepen our compassion for others making a similar journey.

My recent involvement with Local Immigration Partnerships (LIPs) has reinforced the importance of connection and belonging to newcomer settlement and integration.[6] For 47 years, CCM Canada has sought to be a bridge—connecting people with God, the church, and the community, while connecting Chinese communities with the wider world. This is at the heart of our calling: "Reaching the Chinese to Reach the World." Our commitment to serving Chinese communities has not changed. But cross-cultural mission is no longer a distant mission field; it is part of everyday life in our own neighbourhood. As people from around the world become our neighbours, how might God use our own experiences—and the foundation He has already given us—to extend that bridge further?

From Chinese Communities to the Nations

I am deeply grateful for our faithful staff and for every church that walks alongside us. Over the years, we have served Chinese communities across different languages and generations—from Cantonese and Mandarin speakers to younger generations who communicate primarily in English. It is precisely because so many have faithfully served Chinese communities over the years that we now have a strong foundation on which to build as we take our next step. Over the past year, we began moving more intentionally across cultural and linguistic boundaries. Surrey and Delta became pilot communities for intercultural ministry, while we also developed relationships with mainstream immigrant-serving organizations across Canada. As immigration policies and available services change, some newcomer needs may not be fully met through existing systems. Where we can, we hope to work alongside others to help bridge those gaps.

This step is not limited to our cities. Our Small Town Mission is connecting with more local churches and non-Chinese communities, while our missionaries continue to serve across cultures in places such as Thailand and the Middle East. There is still much to learn. We hope to strengthen this work by engaging more people, mobilizing additional resources, developing practical initiatives, and deepening partnerships. We will continue to listen, learn, and follow God's leading. As the Chinese saying reminds us, "Within the four seas, all are brothers." We invite Chinese churches to join us in sharing the Gospel and the blessings we have received with people beyond familiar cultural boundaries, in response to the God-given vision of reaching all nations regardless of culture and ethnicity. We have taken the first step. Will you walk side by side with us on the journey ahead?

Ministry Highlights

From the First Step to a Thousand Miles

As the saying goes, "A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step." Taking that first step is often the hardest. According to UNICEF, there are some 5,000 ethnic groups worldwide, while Canada's 2021 Census recorded over 450 ethnic or cultural origins.[1] For nearly half a century, CCM Canada has served Chinese communities. Today, people from around the world are our neighbours, opening new doors for cross-cultural outreach. We are taking another step beyond cultural and linguistic barriers, reaching those who have yet to hear the Gospel. Through our ministries, we hope they will experience Christ's love, and that every encounter will plant seeds of the Gospel, taking root and growing in God's time. Our efforts focus on three areas:

TO BE SEEN

Helping our communities discover CCM

We are stepping into our communities and building relationships with immigrant-serving agencies, community organizations, and churches. As more people come to know CCM Canada and the services we offer, we are also listening to the needs of different communities and exploring opportunities to collaborate.

TO SERVE

Letting our actions speak

Through pilot ministries, community activities, camps, and collaborative initiatives, we are serving people beyond the Chinese community. These encounters allow us to build genuine relationships with our neighbours, better understand their needs, and inform the development of future ministries.

TO EQUIP

Helping our staff and partners embrace the vision

Intercultural ministry requires people who understand and share the vision. Over the past year, we have created opportunities for staff and ministry partners to learn and exchange ideas through workshops and other gatherings. Through CCM Canada's publication Prayer & Praise, we have also invited staff, churches, and readers to reflect with us on intercultural and intergenerational ministry.

The following pages highlight several ministries that illustrate the different ways we are beginning to explore and put intercultural ministry into practice.

[1] UNICEF notes that there are approximately 5,000 ethnic groups worldwide, while Statistics Canada's 2021 Census recorded more than 450 ethnic or cultural origins in Canada. Surrey Intercultural Ministries

Intercultural Ministries Planning Committee

WHY How It Began Two to three years ago, CCM Canada volunteers began connecting with Chinese churches in Surrey, BC and serving the community through Prayer Walk. As they became more involved, people from other cultural backgrounds began joining the activities, while local churches also expressed a desire to reach beyond the Chinese community. As CCM Canada embraced the vision of "United to Reach All Nations," the Intercultural Ministries Planning Committee was formed, with Surrey-Delta, BC, selected as a pilot area. According to the 2021 Census, Surrey is home to sizeable South Asian, Chinese, Filipino and Southeast Asian communities, while neighbouring Delta is also home to a diverse population—providing a natural setting for intercultural ministry.

Having Fun Together

WHEN Taking Shape In May 2026, the volunteer-led Surrey Ministry Group was established alongside the Intercultural Ministries Planning Committee, building on relationships with local churches and community members that had developed over the previous few years.

WHAT Serving the Community Through newcomers fairs, emergency preparedness seminars, Christmas carolling, and family visits, we connect directly with newcomers and residents from different cultural backgrounds. The team also collaborates with local churches, community organizations such as New Hope, and immigrant-serving agencies including S.U.C.C.E.S.S., MOSAIC, and Options Community Services. More recently, we have participated in meetings of Surrey's Local Immigration Partnership (LIP) and launched a Laptop Lending Program for newcomer families in need.

Camp Time

A Camp Organized in Partnership with New Hope

WHO Who We Serve What began primarily among Chinese churches and residents in Surrey is gradually extending to individuals and families from diverse cultural and ethnic backgrounds throughout Surrey-Delta.

IMPACT Taking a Step Beyond Surrey-Delta allows us to explore intercultural ministry while building on the foundation of our Chinese ministry. As we serve, God has brought families from other cultural backgrounds into our lives, gradually widening the scope of our ministry. Together with local churches and ministry partners, we are learning what intercultural ministry can look like—experience that will help guide similar ministries in other communities.

Café Le Chemin
café solidaire

WHY A Place to Connect A cup of coffee can open a conversation. Café le Chemin, a social enterprise of CCM Montreal Centre, connects individuals, churches, and the community, creating a welcoming space where people from different cultures and backgrounds can meet and build relationships.

WHEN From Vision to Reality The vision emerged during the pandemic, when isolation created a deep need for connection. Even before the café opened , music and cultural events were already bringing people together. Since officially opening in April 2026, the café has become a growing hub for community life.

WHAT More Than Coffee Beyond food and drinks, the café brings together local churches, organizations, students, and community members through Gospel gatherings, music, arts, and cultural events—creating natural opportunities for conversation and sharing the Gospel.

WHO Who Comes Through the Door? Local residents, university students, young adults, musicians, and artists from different cultural and linguistic backgrounds all find a place here. Future plans include partnering with special education schools to offer students with special needs opportunities for work experience and skills training.

IMPACT Taking a Step Beyond Through coffee, music, and art, Café le Chemin brings the Gospel naturally into everyday community life, connecting cultures and generations while opening new doors for relationships and intercultural ministry.

Podcast Ministry:
Voices We Longed For

WHY Creating Space for New Voices Using podcasts and digital media familiar to younger generations, "Voices We Longed For" creates space for people from different linguistic, cultural, and family backgrounds to share their stories, explore faith, and build connections.

WHEN Getting Started Planning began in December 2025. The first season ran from May to August 2026, with a second season planned for October to December 2026.

WHAT Conversations That Matter Through interviews, conversations, and personal stories, guests share their experiences of culture, growing up, and faith—exploring how faith shapes the lives, values, and worldviews of a new generation.

WHO Who Takes Part? While primarily reaching youth and young adults, participants range from 12 to 50 and represent different cultural and geographic backgrounds, including North America and Asia. The podcast is produced in English.

IMPACT Taking a Step Beyond Moving beyond Chinese youth and young adults, the podcast uses English and digital platforms to cross cultural, generational, and geographic boundaries. With more than 2,759 views on YouTube, it is helping diverse voices be heard and bringing intercultural and intergenerational conversations about faith to a wider audience.

Summer Camp

[1]New Hope Community Services Society provides transitional housing for up to 18 months and community support for newcomer refugee families with children in BC.

WHY Growing Together For many years, Kids Camp has provided families with an affordable, safe, and fun option during school breaks. It also creates opportunities to connect with families from different backgrounds and share the Gospel with children and youth volunteers.

WHEN A Growing Ministry Originally serving mainly Chinese families, Kids Camp now welcomes children and youth from diverse cultural backgrounds. Programs include 3-week Spring Break Camp and 7-week Summer Camp. If opportunities arise, we would be happy to partner with other community organizations to organize camps.

WHAT Learning Through Serving Children ages 5–12 enjoy games, activities, and time together, while youth volunteers ages 14–18 receive training and guidance as they learn to lead, and serve. This year, through connections with church partners, we also partnered with New Hope[1] to run spring and summer camps, serving children from refugee families, creating opportunities for friendships to grow across cultures.

WHO A Wider Community Participants come from a wide range of backgrounds, including Chinese, Japanese, Korean, Filipino, newcomer and refugee families. With outreach at New Hope included, Spring Break Camp recorded over 100 child attendances per week, while the 7-week Summer Camp recorded about 225 attendances. Around 10 youth volunteers helped out in each session.

IMPACT Taking a Step Beyond Kids Camp provides a welcoming space where children can grow, youth can learn to serve, and families have opportunities to encounter the Gospel. As more families from diverse cultural backgrounds take part, our ministry continues to reach a wider community.

Trainning, Workshop and Promotion

WHY Changing How We See Intercultural ministry is not simply about launching new programs; it also requires us to rethink how we see and understand others. We believe this vision can take root only when our co-workers and ministry partners develop greater intercultural awareness, sensitivity, and competency.

WHEN Building Awareness Over the past year, intercultural learning has gradually been introduced through internal training, a leadership team retreat, and publications, reaching our co-workers and ministry partners in different areas of our work.

WHAT Learning Together Intercultural competency was a key focus of our 2026 leadership team retreat, where interactive exercises challenged co-workers to reflect on cultural assumptions. In April 2026, Dorothy Pang of Tyndale Intercultural Ministries Centre led a workshop titled “Developing Intercultural Competency” for co-workers, ministry partners, and church pastors.

“Developing Intercultural Competancy” Workshop

Leadership Team Retreat

Group Presentation

WHO Extending the Conversation The learning has expanded to co-workers across our centres, ministry partners, and church pastors. In February 2026, Prayer & Praise also featured local intercultural ministry, inviting churches, partners, supporters, and readers into the conversation.

IMPACT Taking a Step Beyond Our goal is more than developing intercultural ministries—it is developing an intercultural mindset. By recognizing our own cultural blind spots and learning to listen with humility and empathy, we hope this vision will increasingly shape how we understand and serve people from different backgrounds.

Small Town Mission

Ministry Highlights

In 2026, Small Town Mission celebrated its 25th anniversary with thanksgiving and vision-sharing gatherings in Vancouver and the Prairie provinces, along with our "Rise & Move" fundraising campaign. Our itinerant missionaries continue to serve across British Columbia, the Prairies, and the East Coast through personal visits, online Bible studies, and children's programs. We are also developing new outreach routes and encouraging churches in larger cities to walk alongside churches and communities in small towns as we fulfill the Great Commission together.

Small Towns Still Matter to God

As Small Town Mission marks its 25th anniversary, I am deeply grateful for God's faithfulness. Our ministry now reaches communities across Canada, with more churches joining us and our outreach gradually expanding from Cantonese-speaking believers to Mandarin- and English-speaking communities. The road is not without challenges. Many small-town churches face aging congregations and a shortage of ministry workers, while ministry costs continue to rise. We cannot walk this road alone. We need more churches, missionaries, volunteers, and partners to answer the call.

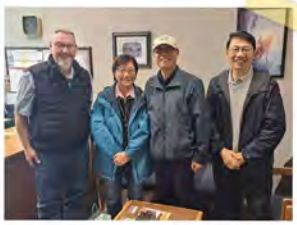

Yet we continue to see God at work through visits, evangelism, discipleship, and partnerships with churches. Most encouragingly, some churches that once served alongside us are now organizing their own teams to reach small towns. After 25 years, we remain convinced that small towns still matter to God. May God raise up more people willing to say, "Here I am," and carry the Gospel to more lives.

Rosemary Tong
Ministry Director
(Small Town Mission / Mission Mobilization)

Looking Ahead: We've Reached Nova Scotia

In the coming year, we will continue equipping itinerant missionaries and missionaries-at-large and mobilizing more churches—particularly Mandarin- and English-speaking congregations and younger believers. We will expand our ministry in Nova Scotia, explore opportunities to reach non-Chinese communities, and develop our popular short-term mission training materials into a practical booklet to better equip teams before they head out on mission trips.

Visiting a Local Church at Williams Lake, BC

A Step Beyond: Stepping Beyond Familiar Boundaries

Small towns are changing—and so is our ministry. This year, we began reaching beyond familiar Chinese communities, connecting with non-Chinese restaurant owners, care-home residents, and people from different ethnic backgrounds. In Alberta, we also took our first steps toward short-term mission outreach among non-Chinese communities.

"Here I Am"

After a mission meeting, a sister exclaimed, "We need a driver!" A young man raised his hand. "I have a seven-seater van. I can drive." His name was Ryan, an English-speaking pastor who had been praying about involving his congregation in small-town missions. He later joined our Prairie Itinerant Missionary, James, in visiting local churches. Their efforts eventually grew into the Edmonton Non-Chinese Ministry Exposure and Training Journey. I was reminded that God often works through simple acts of willingness—a van, a Saturday, an open heart. Nothing extraordinary, just someone saying, "Here I am." God will write the rest of the story.

— Pastor Patrick, Missionary-at-Large

"Thank You, Short Town Mission Team!"

When my husband and I separated, I struggled with bitterness and sadness. One day, I met a CCM Small Town Mission Team at a Chinese restaurant. Hearing them speak Chinese, I struck up a conversation that lasted over an hour. They visited again and invited me to accept Christ. To my surprise, I readily said yes. About a year later, they returned to baptize me at Scout Island in Williams Lake, surrounded by fellow believers who came to celebrate. Since then, team members have continued to encourage me through Bible study, messages, and prayer. I now attend church every Sunday. I thank God for bringing them into my life. Our world truly needs more people to know Christ!

Overseas Mission

Ministry Highlights

Throughout the year, we continued to advance mission education, mobilization, short-term missions, and cross-regional partnerships. We held 6 online prayer meetings and led at least 27 sermons, mission-sharing sessions, and Sunday School classes. Short-term mission teams served in Costa Rica, Central and South America, and the United Kingdom, connecting believers across languages and regions. We also partnered with CCM International and CCM ministries worldwide to support ministry efforts in Central and South America and the UK, while preparing to send missionaries to Thailand and the UK.

Youth Leader Conference and Missions

From Zero to Nine

Over the past year, I have witnessed God building His missionary team. After the pandemic, I was the only missionary. By the end of 2026, by God's grace, our Overseas Mission team will have grown to nine. It has been deeply moving to hear sending pastors share how they have watched missionaries grow, receive training, discern God's call, and finally see Him open the way for them to be sent. I share their joy and gratitude.

Our ministry has also expanded beyond the Americas to the Middle East, France, Thailand, and the United Kingdom. Southeast Asia was not part of our original plan. Yet, in response to an appeal from local co-workers, we began praying and discerning with prospective missionaries. Eventually, we sensed God leading us to reach Buddhist and Muslim youth in Southeast Asia.

I have also been deeply encouraged by the missionary passion and connections among young people. Earlier this year, I joined over 40 young leaders and co-workers from Central and South America. Their warmth and fellowship touched me deeply. Looking back on CCM's years of involvement in Central and South America, I praise God to see a church we have supported in Costa Rica grow into a missionary church, with a new generation stepping into leadership. What a joy to see God raising up servant leaders and passing the torch to the next generation!

Looking Ahead: Building a Stronger Mission Team

Our focus next year will be strengthening our mission team and providing greater pastoral care and practical support. With many of our missionaries moving through different stages of life, their health and well-being are important considerations, alongside practical needs such as visas, taxes, medical care, and insurance. Meanwhile, our missionary couple in the Middle East is now well-established and beginning to look for teammates.

A Step Beyond: Empowering a New Generation

This year, we connected Chinese young people across languages and cultures—from French-speaking youth in Eastern Canada and Paris to young people from Argentina, Peru, Panama, and Costa Rica serving together in Central America. The next generation is not simply joining mission activities; they are becoming leaders who can bring the Gospel to their own generation.

Serving God in Uncertain Times

When war broke out, our daily lives were turned upside down. At first, we stayed home, avoiding unnecessary outings. Gradually, we learned to resume everyday life while remaining cautious and caring for our physical and emotional well-being. Through these uncertain times, we have experienced the strength of walking together. CCM Canada, our local team, prayer partners, and Bible study group have continued to support us spiritually. By sharing updates and praying together, we remain closely connected. Again and again, God has sustained and renewed us, reminding us that we are never alone.

When Cantonese Gospel Opera Touches Hearts

During a CCM short-term mission trip to the UK in June, I joined a street outreach in Birmingham's Chinatown around the Dragon Boat Festival. We distributed rice dumplings and gospel tracts while team members performed Cantonese gospel opera. To our surprise, an Iranian woman was drawn to the music, saying it brought her peace. We shared how the lyrics spoke of the Creator's love and faithfulness. She even requested the music and lyrics, which our team later emailed her. What a wonderful reminder that God can use Cantonese gospel opera as a bridge for cross-cultural evangelism! May His Word take root in her heart (Isaiah 55:11).

Literature Mission

Ministry Highlights

Our work centres on four areas: distributing Chinese Today, editing Prayer & Praise, publishing books, and operating the CCM Bookroom. Chinese Today continues to reach all ten provinces and three territories, supported by CCM Centres, churches, and missionaries serving as distribution hubs to help reduce mailing costs. This year, we published all three volumes of 366 Daily Devotions with Maureen Chung, while Prayer & Praise launched online and email editions. Nearly 20 book fairs, seminars, and outreach events were held throughout the year.

Do You Believe in the Power of Words?

A Japanese bookstore manager once said, "If bookstores themselves no longer believe in the power of books, what else can we believe in?"[1] That conviction resonates deeply with us.

Despite limited people and resources, this past year brought unexpected encouragement. At a time when print readership is often assumed to be declining, our total print distribution rose by 10%. The first two volumes of our English devotional series, 366 Daily Devotions with Maureen Chung, were quickly distributed, and the newly released third volume has also been warmly received. We also stepped beyond our physical Bookroom to meet readers face to face. Through more than ten book fairs and seminars on biblical archaeology and other theological topics, we connected with hundreds of people. Readers stopped by to buy books, talk about what they were reading, and share their enthusiasm. Somewhere along the way, we became friends through books.

In an age of AI, where instant responses and constant stimulation have become the norm, some see publishing as a sunset industry; others find in reading a precious chance to slow down. Yet we remain steadfast in our belief that words are faithful silent missionaries, and good books are quiet companions amid the noise of the world—opening minds, challenging assumptions, and deepening our understanding of truth.

Growing Demand for Simplified Chinese and English Publications

Requests for the Simplified Chinese print edition of Chinese Today increased by 38%, while demand for the English mission publication Challenger rose by 22%—a sign that our Literature Mission is reaching further into Mandarin- and English-speaking communities.

Stories That Bring God into Everyday Life

"I came to the United States on my own, carrying questions about life and faith into a church. There I first encountered Chinese Today magazines. Story by story, I began to understand who God is and what He has done. Before becoming a Christian, I read every issue. The Bible showed me God's Word; the stories in Chinese Today showed me that God is present in everyday life. Each story softened my heart, little by little."

—Sophie Wang, Digital Media Designer

"Nearly 30 years ago, when my marriage was in trouble, I came across a stack of Chinese Today at church. Reading how others had faced even greater struggles and found hope in Jesus gave me faith that God could help me too—and He did. Today, I still bring Chinese Today when I visit people or join mission teams, hoping their stories will encourage others as they once encouraged me."

Online Mission

Ministry Highlights

Throughout the year, we continued offering regular online courses in Asia and beyond, developing a progressive training pathway from Biblical Hermeneutics and sermon preparation to preaching and leadership development. We also offered small-group leader training and topical courses to deepen discipleship.

A new training initiative was launched to equip workers serving in creative access regions. At the same time, prayer groups, family discipleship programs, and devotional groups extended spiritual formation into homes and different communities, all with the goal of nurturing lives and raising up the next generation of leaders.

Between Faith and Wisdom

This year, I have felt more deeply the tension between moving forward boldly and proceeding with discernment. Much of our Online Mission serves people in sensitive, sometimes high-risk settings. Every course we offer and every piece of information we share requires us to balance faith with wisdom. At times, I wish we could move faster and reach more people. Yet I am continually reminded that protecting our participants must come before making progress. There is no simple formula; we can only keep returning to God and asking for wisdom. Our family discipleship ministries have revealed another kind of need—challenges much closer to home. Some parents are exhausted as their children struggle with burnout, school, or work. I have come to see that discipleship cannot simply be about passing on knowledge. Parents themselves need renewal, and spiritual care must also take into account mental well-being.

Numbers are not our only measure of impact. When I see participants committing themselves to equipping the next generation, I am reminded that God values depth of life, not simply breadth of reach. Our calling is to sow faithfully and leave the timing of the harvest to Him.

Looking Ahead: Towards Whole-Person Care

We will continue moving towards whole-person care, equipping small-group leaders not only to lead Bible studies but also to care for the spiritual, emotional, and physical well-being of those they serve.

A Step Beyond: Equipping Leaders Across Borders

We are developing a three-stage leadership training pathway to equip committed local workers. Our hope is to strengthen believers in creative access regions and beyond—including North America, Europe, and Central and South America.

Learning That Shapes Lives

"This course took me beyond surface-level Bible reading and helped me better understand context, history, culture, and the meaning of the original text. I believe this approach will continue to guide my Bible study and ministry."
—Participant, Biblical Hermeneutics Course

"I am not yet a Christian, but studying the Bible with the teacher has brought me peace and helped me learn more about the Bible. I am grateful." —Guest Participant

"Our teacher helped me see that Revelation's message of suffering and trials offers hope, not fear. The promise of "no more death or mourning or crying or pain" (Revelation 21:4) has become a real source of comfort." — Student, Revelation Course

"Our teacher's humility and obedience became an example to us. We learned not only about the Bible, but also what it means to follow the Lord's leading in everything." —Participant

"Spiritual growth was the most precious part of this experience. I learned to step away from the busyness of life, listen quietly to God's Word, and approach those I serve alongside with greater humility." —Participant

"Our teacher often reminds us: 'In essentials, unity; in non-essentials, liberty; in all things, love.' His dedication to teaching and openness to different views, even in his later years, are an inspiration to us."
— Student, Ethics / Genesis Courses

Urban Mission

Bring the Church to People,
Bring People Back to the Church

At the heart of Urban Mission is a simple calling: Bring the Church to People, Bring People Back to the Church. Through practical ministries and programs, we live out the Gospel while responding to real needs in our communities. Across our five CCM Centres in Vancouver, Toronto, Calgary, Edmonton, and Montreal, our programs may differ, but our purpose is shared: to integrate faith with professional care and serving the whole person—body, mind, spirit and relationships.

Gospel Outreach & Faith Formation

Vancouver · Toronto · Calgary · Edmonton · Montreal

Through Bible studies, discipleship, spiritual direction, Gospel gatherings, and community outreach, we help seekers explore faith and believers grow spiritually. We also partner with churches to offer Bible studies and workshops, while Café Le Chemin in Montreal uses music and community events to create opportunities for Gospel outreach.

Professing Faith in Christ

Mental Health Seminar

Summer Kids Camp

Monday Drumming Class for Seniors

Community & Interest Programs

Vancouver · Toronto · Calgary · Edmonton · Montreal

Music, arts, sports, language, and other interest-based activities create welcoming spaces where people can connect, build relationships, and create opportunities for sharing the Gospel.

Family, Children & Youth

Vancouver · Toronto · Calgary · Edmonton

Parenting education, family seminars, parent-child activities, children's camps, and youth groups respond to the needs of families and the next generation. Programs include the "Hong Kong New Immigrant Family" program in Vancouver, Young Community Troopers in Toronto, and a youth podcast.

Counselling & Mental Health

Vancouver · Toronto · Calgary · Edmonton · Montreal

Professional counselling for individuals, couples, families, children, and youth is complemented by mental health seminars, support groups, and caregiver support. Services are offered in different forms across our five centres.

Legal Aid & Practical Support

Vancouver · Toronto · Calgary · Montreal

From tax filing and IT support to translation, referrals, and assistance for those with limited income, practical services help people navigate everyday challenges. The Vancouver and Calgary Centres also offer First Aid Certification Courses, while the Vancouver Centre offers FoodSafe Certification Courses. Vancouver Centre and Toronto Centre also provide legal consultation through dedicated legal aid services.

Caring Ministries

Through visits, support groups, practical assistance, and spiritual care, we walk alongside people through different seasons of life.

Critical Illness & Health Care

Vancouver · Calgary · Edmonton · Toronto · Montreal

Visits, support groups, health education, and caregiver training support people living with serious or chronic illnesses and their families.

Special Needs Families

Vancouver · Calgary

Parent groups, family camps, retreats, resources, and caregiver support help children reach their potential while giving parents a community that walks alongside them.

Seniors Care

Vancouver · Toronto · Calgary · Montreal

Visits, phone calls, health seminars, social activities, and assistance with medical appointments respond to seniors' physical, emotional, and spiritual needs.

Men's Care

Vancouver · Toronto

Groups and gatherings provide a place for men to support one another, grow in faith, and navigate challenges at home and at work.

Women's Care

Toronto · Edmonton

Small groups, Bible studies, retreats, and other gatherings help women support one another in family life, personal growth, and faith.

A Step Beyond: Crossing Language, Cultural & Ethnic Barriers

Urban Mission is increasingly reaching beyond familiar boundaries as we walk alongside newcomers settling in Canada. We are building connections with churches, community and ministry partners, and professional services through initiatives including Surrey Intercultural Ministry, partnerships developed by the Calgary and Edmonton Centres with mainstream and immigrant-serving organizations in Alberta, and Café Le Chemin in Montreal.

Seeing People, Building Relationships

"Bring the Church to People, Bring People Back to the Church" has been our mission for 25 years. As the needs around us change, so do the ways we serve. A seniors' gathering, a counselling session, a legal consultation, a camp or a seminar—each opens a door into someone's life. The form may change, but our purpose remains: to care for the whole person—body, mind, relationships, and spirit. We seek to follow Christ by recognizing people's needs and responding with humility. Many who may not feel comfortable stepping into a church are open to connecting with us through our outreach programs. When someone feels welcomed, heard, and cared for, relationships begin to grow. Sometimes those relationships even lead to prayer and the sharing of life stories.

Looking back, I am especially grateful for our co-workers, volunteers, and church partners. Some who once received help are now serving others. This reminds me that ministry cannot be measured by numbers alone. What matters is whether someone has been seen, a relationship has been built, and a community has experienced the love of Christ. God has brought together people of different backgrounds, gifts, and professional experience. To move forward, we need to keep listening, equipping volunteers, partnering with churches, and making room for younger and older generations to serve together. As we step further into intercultural ministry, we need humility more than ever. Holistic care, life transformation, and Gospel proclamation are not separate tasks. They belong together. Our calling is not simply to ask what new ministry we can start, but how every encounter can reflect the love of Christ.

Looking Ahead:

Making Room for Intergenerational & Intercultural Ministry

As we move further into intercultural and intergenerational ministry, the ways we serve will continue to evolve. In the coming year, we hope to welcome more people from different backgrounds, create opportunities for generations to serve side by side, and continue learning through our emerging pilot ministries.

A Step Beyond:

Reaching Refugee Communities & Connecting with Local Partners

Through Surrey Intercultural Ministry, we served children in the New Hope refugee community and connected with S.U.C.C.E.S.S., MOSAIC, and Options Community Services, exploring ways to serve newcomers and refugees from different cultural backgrounds. Our table tennis ministry has also become a meeting place across languages, ages, and cultures. The Safety and Secure Living Fair brought together 23 local non-profit organizations, while our Caring Ministry partnered with organizations including Pain BC, Chinese Community Policing Centre, H&FAA Foundation, and posAbilities. Each connection is helping us step beyond familiar boundaries and discover new ways to serve.

Change Begins with Being Seen and Accepted

"A three-day retreat became a memory that will warm my heart for a long time. Through the quiet care and prayers of others, I felt loved, seen, and understood. Surrounded by beautiful scenery and fresh air, I felt as though I had rediscovered the part of myself that could smile freely again. The road ahead may not always be easy, but with people beside me to laugh and cry with, I know I am not alone. I thank God for this love that has given me strength to move forward."

—Alice, mother of a child with special needs

"Our table tennis ministry brings people of different ages, cultures, and backgrounds together. One participant initially found it difficult to connect with others. Through the acceptance and care he experienced at the Centre, he gradually became part of the community, began playing with beginners, and eventually opened up about his own struggles. Sometimes change begins not with a sermon, but with a welcoming community, a table tennis table, and a relationship built over time."

Striving for Excellence, United to Ascend

Looking back, I think less about how much we accomplished and more about how God kept us moving forward despite our limitations. This was not an easy year. With co-worker transitions and limited capacity, we often found ourselves balancing existing ministries with emerging needs. Yet our two centres still recorded 7,653 service attendances—made possible not only by our co-workers, but also by the faithful support of volunteers and church partners.

We know we cannot serve alone. This year, we continued reaching beyond familiar Chinese church circles, partnering with mainstream and immigrant-serving organizations and adapting existing resources for Chinese communities. When organizations share their expertise and experience, our ministry is no longer limited by what we can provide on our own. At the same time, community needs are changing. More newcomer families are seeking counselling, while children and youth, mental health, caregivers, and families with special needs also require ongoing support. These needs call us to keep listening, adapting, and learning.

Facilitated A Church Day Retreat

Chinatown Street Festival

In June, we created a new community engagement position at CCM Calgary Centre to strengthen connections with the public, volunteers, supporters, and churches. It may be a small step, but it reminds us to keep watching for the new doors God is opening.The road ahead will bring challenges, but we are grateful that God continues to bring people together to complement one another. May we keep building connections with churches, volunteers, professional partners, and our communities as we respond to the needs He places before us.

Queenie Hui
Centre Director
(CCM Calgary & Edmonton Centres)

Looking Ahead: Strengthening Community Connections

We will continue responding to the needs in counselling, mental health, and support for families with special needs, with greater support for children, youth, marriages, and Mandarin-speaking clients. We will also expand our partnership with Caregivers Alberta, develop youth mental health and spiritual formation initiatives, and explore new ways—including first aid courses—to connect with people beyond the church community.

A Step Beyond: Bridging Chinese Communities & Mainstream Services

Reaching the World

In addition to our partnerships with Recovery Alberta and Pain BC, we established new collaborations with Caregivers Alberta and NorQuest College to translate English-language mental health resources into Chinese, making them more accessible to Chinese communities. We also partnered with ASSIST Community Services Centre and local churches.

By sharing expertise, resources, and experience, we are stepping beyond familiar circles and exploring new possibilities for intercultural and intergenerational ministry.

Life Is Still Challenging, but I Am No Longer Alone

"After leaving the home I had known for decades, the challenges of starting over in Canada brought me close to depression. In one of the darkest periods of my life, I found CCM's counselling service. With my counsellor patiently walking alongside me, I began sorting through my emotions and past hurts, and gradually regained the confidence to face life again."

—D.L., counselling service client

"Through the family & friends support group, I learned from others how to better care for a family member living with illness. I was also reminded that caring for my own well-being helps me care for those I love. Life is still challenging, but I no longer feel alone. I know there are people walking alongside me, supporting and encouraging one another."

Seeing New Possibilities for Mandarin Ministry Amid Challenges

As more Chinese churches develop their own community care and wellness ministries, the landscape around us is changing. This has prompted us to rethink our role in the community. Yet we also see new possibilities. Through our Legal Clinic, Linkage Counselling, Tax Clinic, and IT support, we meet people from different cultural backgrounds and respond to practical needs. Much of this work happens one-on-one or with families, giving us space to listen, understand, and build trust. To extend that care further, educational seminars and WISE bring the knowledge and experience gained through our professional services into the wider community while creating natural connections with local churches. Together, professional services, community education, and church partnerships help us live out our mission: Bring the Church to People, Bring People Back to the Church.

We are also seeing more Mandarin-speaking families participating in our children and youth ministries. As younger generations increasingly prefer hands-on experiences, we hope to introduce more sports, physical activities, and STEM elements into Young Community Troopers (YCT)—helping children grow holistically while continuing to build relationships with their families.

Looking Ahead:

Expanding Community Care Through Professional Services

We will continue building on our strengths in legal aid, counselling, tax filing, and IT support, using workshops and courses to bring what we have learned through individual services into the wider community. We also hope to create more opportunities for intergenerational connection, introduce more sports, STEM, and experiential activities for children and youth, and explore ways to expand Mandarin ministries.

A Step Beyond:

Building Bridges Across Cultures and Generations

This year, we continued creating spaces where cultures and generations can connect. We welcomed a short-term mission team from the United States that included 13 teenagers. They reached out to the community and connected with more than 350 local residents, some of whom even learned simple Chinese phrases. Our youth podcast, "Voices We Longed For," gives young people a place to share their stories, while WISE brings youth and seniors together through technology—creating opportunities for both generations to learn from and appreciate one another.

Dreams Have No Age Limit

"The Love Music Ensemble gives retirees an opportunity to rediscover musical dreams left behind in their younger years. Some had never played an instrument or read music, yet were willing to begin from scratch. Week by week, they learn, practise, and encourage one another. More than learning music, they have found a community where they can grow, experience joy, and walk alongside one another."

—A story from the Love Music Ensemble

From Knowing to Seeing

"One of our newer volunteers had served in church for years and often heard about community needs. But serving at our reception desk and Tax Clinic brought him face to face with people struggling with language barriers, finances, family difficulties, or loneliness. He discovered that Urban Mission is not simply about helping others, but also about learning to see their real needs—and responding by living out the love of Christ."

Centre Director's Reflection

Café Le Chemin Opens Its Doors

Over the past year, we have been grateful to see God leading CCM Montreal Centre step by step. Through home visits, outreach to people experiencing homelessness, Bible studies, counselling, tax and translation services, health programs, and more, we have walked alongside people with different needs and stories. We are especially thankful for local churches that serve with us, helping turn simple acts of care into relationships through which Christ's love and hope can be shared.

One of this year's most significant milestones was the opening of Café Le Chemin. More than a coffee shop, it has opened another door for the Gospel. A group of enthusiastic young people has played a part in this open door for the Gospel. In 2025, 16 youth from Eastern Canada travelled to Paris, where they worshipped, studied the Bible, and joined outreach activities with local believers, deepening their passion for the Gospel. Back in Montreal, they continued participating in local outreach. Some also became enthusiastic helpers at the café, bringing friends, organizing activities, and assisting with daily operations. Their involvement has brought fresh energy and vitality to the café.

New doors also bring new challenges. We need more French-speaking co-workers and volunteers to help us connect with the wider Quebec community. As our neighbourhood continues to change, we want to keep listening, discerning, and responding to emerging needs.

Café Le Chemin Grand Opening — April 4, 2026

Music Gathering at Café Le Chemin

We believe CCM Montreal Centre can be a bridge—connecting church and community, and bringing people of different cultures and backgrounds together. Every act of service and every relationship can become an opportunity for someone to encounter Christ.

Looking Ahead: Making the Café a Bridge Across Cultures

We hope to recruit a suitable Centre Director and café manager while further developing Café Le Chemin through Christian art workshops, exhibitions, cultural events, and more. Our vision is to make the café a welcoming community hub connecting people from diverse cultural and ethnic backgrounds, reaching the wider community and creating opportunities to share our faith. We also hope to develop family care, home care, and men's ministries.

Homeless Outreach

A Step Beyond: Pausing Over a Cup of Coffee

The opening of Café Le Chemin marked a new step in intercultural ministry. Located in a multicultural neighbourhood, the Café brings people from different backgrounds together. Some stop for coffee, others for music, and some begin sharing their stories and questions about faith. We are also equipping young people to reach out to the local community and share the Gospel across cultures. In just a few months, we have had deeper conversations with more than 20 guests, and one seeker has attended Sunday worship twice.

A Gospel Card, A Lasting Impact

"A former international student once came to us for free tax filing assistance. Years later, after finding work and leaving Quebec, what she remembered most was not the tax service—it was a "Footprints" Gospel card we had given her. She kept it in her room and returned to it whenever she felt discouraged or uncertain. A simple act of service and a small Gospel card had stayed with her long after that first encounter."

—A story from our Tax Clinic

"Jesus Loves You"

"One winter, our Centre joined churches and community partners to prepare about 100 care packages for people experiencing homelessness. At a Metro station, a woman in a wheelchair received a package. When a volunteer gently told her, 'Jesus loves you,' she began to cry. Instead of moving on, the volunteers stayed and prayed with her. The package offered more than warmth and supplies—it carried the love of Christ and a simple message: you have not been forgotten."

Financial Review

Looking back at 2025, we gradually expanded our missionary team over the past few years to respond to Gospel needs in Canada and overseas. With the expansion of our ministries and rising operating costs (see the "Expenditure Evolution" chart), our total expenditure reached $3.91 million in 2025. Donations and fundraising income also increased by approximately $280,000. However, about $260,000 of this increase consisted of designated donations supporting new missionaries and Vancouver Legal Clinic. Growth in donations available for other ministries did not keep pace with ministry expansion, resulting in a $300,000 deficit for the year.

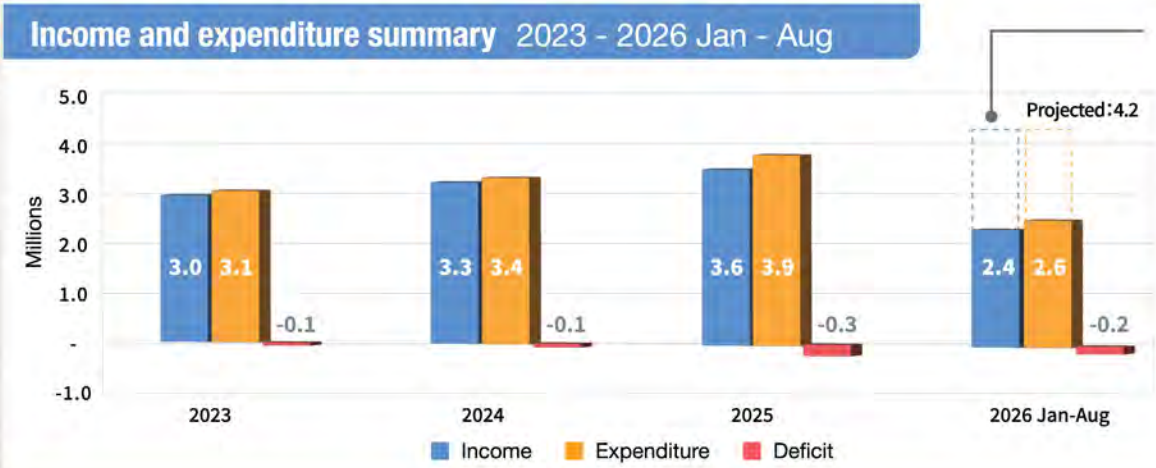

Entering 2026, guided by our mission, "Reaching the Chinese to Reach the World," we continued to expand our overseas missions, including preliminary work in potential mission fields in Southeast Asia and Europe. In Canada, we strengthened our small town mission team in Eastern Canada and launched the community café ministry in Montreal. As a result, total expenditures for the first eight months of 2026 increased by 13% year-over-year to $2.64 million. We thank God for His provision as fundraising activities for our Small Town Mission and CCM Centres in Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Toronto, and Montreal were met with enthusiastic support, while more donations of stocks and securities received, together with several legacy gifts. Consequently, income for the first eight months increased by 21% year-over-year to $2.45 million, resulting in a $190,000 deficit—an improvement of $110,000 from the same period last year.

Nevertheless, accumulated deficits since the pandemic have exceeded $1 million, and our cash reserves have become increasingly thin. Financial pressures therefore remain significant. Looking ahead, we will continue to manage costs through greater use of information technology and more effective allocation of resources. At the same time, we hope to secure additional resources through greater collaboration with churches, organizations and charitable foundations, as well as corporate sponsorships. Through prudent financial stewardship, we remain committed to responding to the needs of our communities. We sincerely ask for your continued prayers and financial support for the ministries and financial needs of CCM Canada.

FINANCIAL SNAPSHOT
(JAN – AUG, 2026)

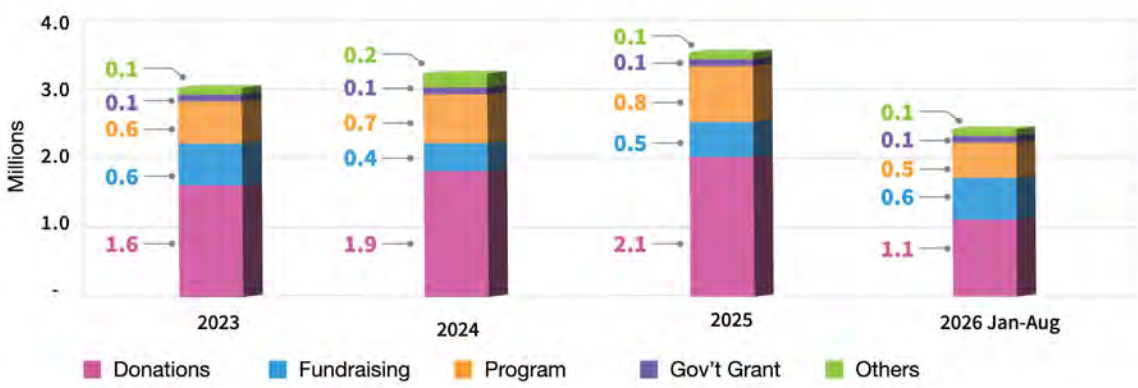

TOTAL REVENUE	: $ 2,401,320
TOTAL EXPENSES	: $ 2,590,395
DEFICIT	: $ 189,075

Income and expenditure summary 2023 - 2026 Jan - Aug

By year-end, we need ~$1.8m in revenue to break even. We expect $300k from service and other income during the remainder of the year, leaving ~$1.5m still to be raised.

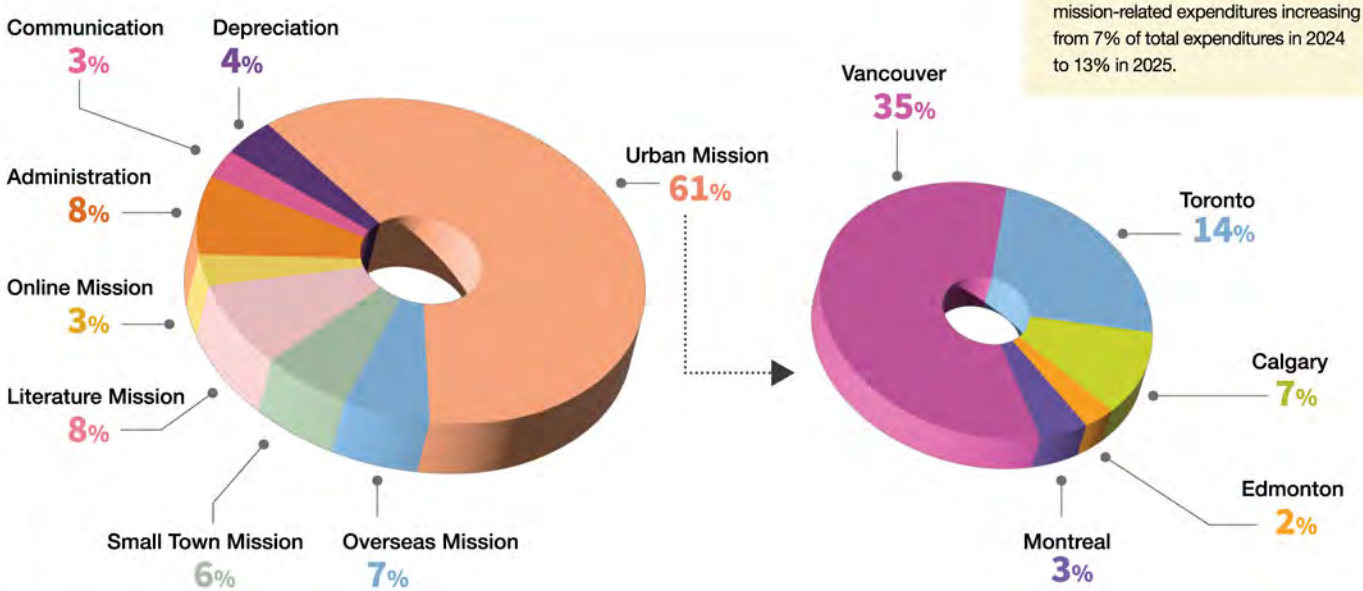

Source of income 2023-2026 Jan - Aug

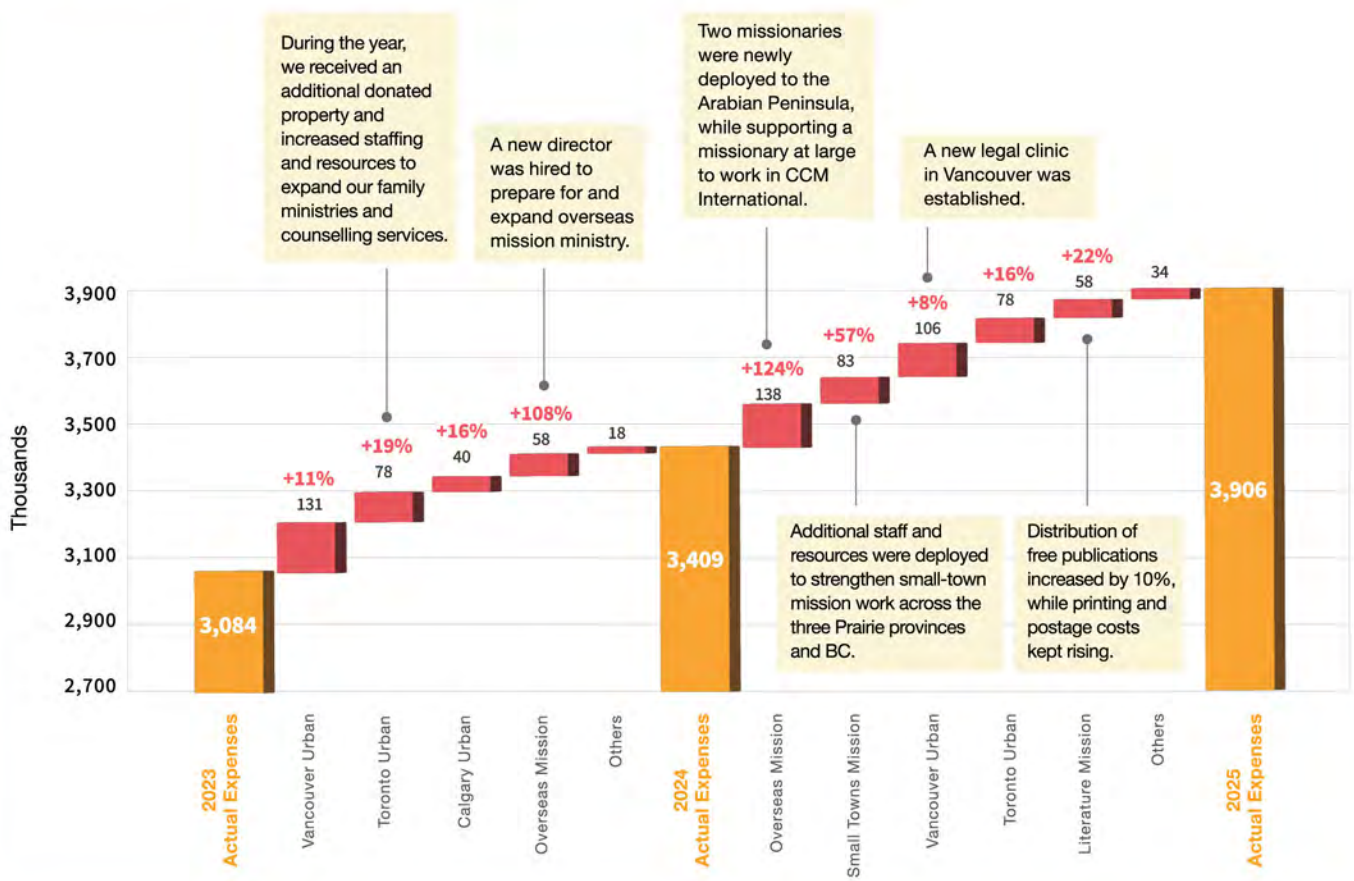

Praise God, income from various fundraising activities organized by ministries and centres during the first eight months of 2026 has already surpassed the total fundraising income for all of 2025. However, donation income still needs to catch up in order to achieve the break-even target outlined above.

Expense by Mission 2025

We continued to strengthen our mission network, with small-town and overseas mission-related expenditures increasing from 7% of total expenditures in 2024 to 13% in 2025.
